

ABSTRACT

The invention is directed to a novel biomedical polyurethane based on diisocyanate linked polyester polymer and diol components, said diol component having a uniform block-length.